

California Republican Assembly

About Us

Since 1934, the California Republican Assembly (CRA) has been working to elect Republican candidates for party and public office who stand resolutely for conservative principles and policies.

As California's oldest and most influential Republican volunteer organization, CRA's endorsement is a coveted privilege for those candidates who meet our high standards — conservative, principled, electable, and the overwhelming choice of our membership. When CRA endorses a candidate, we are committing volunteers, resources, and our reputation.

Our membership is comprised of activists, business owners, and community leaders who are active in local chapters throughout California.

Because of our commitment to Republican principles, President Ronald Reagan called the California Republican Assembly, "the conscience of the Republican Party."

Our Mission

The mission of the California Republican Assembly is:

- to be a responsible conservative voice for the fiscal and social betterment of California and the nation;
- to sponsor public forums which provide for the expression of conservative political points of view;
- to review the performance of our elected leaders and evaluate their adherence to conservative principles;
- to seek out and encourage qualified conservative Republican candidates to run for public office;
- to guide and assist Republican candidates in their campaigns for local, state, and national offices; and
- to increase Republican voter registration.
